Annual Impact Report Highlights Our Many Successes—Thanks to You!

Forever Balboa Park's Board of Trustees and staff are proud to share our FY2023 annual impact report. It details the many ways, in many different areas, that we are making a tangible and sustainable difference parkwide with the help of our city, park, and community partners. This report highlights our collaborative efforts to champion initiatives, projects, and programs that enriched the park during the 2022–2023 fiscal year. Our achievements are thanks to the strong community of people who care so much about Balboa Park. PROJECTS

Old Cactus Garden Meets New Tech

Interactive Cactus Garden Map IDs Dozens of Distinct Plant Varieties

The oldest cactus collection in Balboa Park just received the newest tech upgrade. Launching this week, visitors to the Kate O. Sessions Cactus Garden can access in-depth information about the 100+ distinct species in this 90-year-old garden via an interactive online map. This marks another significant step in our ongoing investments in the Cactus Garden, which includes trail restoration work, regular Garden Steward shifts, and installation of new irrigation. Forever Balboa Park staff collaborated with various experts, including a horticulture intern from SDSU, horticulturalists from the San Diego Zoo, the Gnosis Nursery co-founder, San Diego Cactus and Succulent Society members, and San Diego Master Gardeners, to research and inventory the garden's plants. The interactive map identifies the species found in each bed and provides a photo with information on each species. The map is available on our website, and in the coming weeks, through a QR code on garden signage.

VOLUNTEERS

Join Team Tree

Help Balboa Park's Urban Forest Thrive as a Tree Maintenance Steward

We often share stories about community and corporate partners who actively participate in Forever Balboa Park's efforts to plant new trees across the entire 1,200-acre park. But none of these new trees would survive without the dedicated, ongoing work of our Tree Maintenance Stewards. Help us create a stronger, more resilient urban forest by joining this essential volunteer corps. Tree Maintenance Stewards support the growth of young trees in Balboa Park by removing encroaching weeds and grasses, watering, and mulching. They also learn to identify tree species in the park and monitor their health. Shifts are scheduled twice monthly on Monday mornings in different areas of the park. Please contact Caroline at chill@balboapark.org for more information.

Thank You for Your Service

US Navy Service Members Make Visible Impact on Park's Gardens

Last month, two Balboa Park gardens received a huge helping hand when 60 active-duty service members of the US Navy generously volunteered their time and muscle-power as part of a special community service day. They worked alongside Forever Balboa Park staff, board members, and other volunteers to weed and complete other gardening tasks. In Bird Park, they cleared walking paths of weeds and other debris, and in the Trees for Health Garden, they cleared the canyon of fallen and unneeded logs—four truckloads' worth! Their enthusiastic efforts greatly enhanced the experience of thousands of park visitors, and we couldn't be more grateful.

Send a Thank You Message in Time for Volunteer Appreciation Month

Have you ever visited a well-maintained Balboa Park garden in full bloom, noticed a group of newly planted trees, or rode a freshly restored Carousel animal and wanted to thank someone? Well now is your chance! Next month is Volunteer Appreciation Month, and to get ready, we've set up a special form to thank Forever Balboa Park volunteers for all the work they do to enhance the park experience for all visitors. The messages will be posted on the tables at our annual Volunteer Appreciation Dinner in April. Last year, the messages were a big hit with the volunteers. Please click the link below to send a quick thank you message.

Volunteer of the Month

Beth Bushke Distinguishes Herself in Many Roles

Primarily volunteering on the Visitor Services team, Beth Bushke recently made invaluable contributions to the development of a new park tour that highlights the role of women in Balboa Park's history. Whether she is answering visitor questions at the information desk or working behind the scenes, she approaches every task with alacrity. This includes single-handedly updating and maintaining the Visitor Center's monthly exhibition list. Also serving on the sPARK Awards Ad Hoc Committee, Beth is facilitating research on event sponsors, assisting with logistical planning, and providing insights from her professional experience. She retired from Mastercard after 20+ years as a tech executive and now enjoys reading, yoga, and sailing. "Volunteering at Balboa Park has introduced me to wonderful people and given me an opportunity to learn about my community while sharing with others," she said.

Tree Planting Partners

Cox Communications Employees Help Grow San Diego's Vital Urban Forest

Forever Balboa Park is grateful to our partners at Cox Communications for helping us bolster Balboa Park's urban forest during this critical tree planting season. Sixty Cox employees rolled up their sleeves last month, alongside our Tree and Garden Steward volunteers, to establish 15 new coast live oaks and southern oaks in Morley Field near the bocce courts. Our expert arborists instructed them in proper tree planting techniques and the myriad benefits of a healthy urban tree canopy. Support from the local business community is indispensable to sustaining one of San Diego's greatest natural resources.
